HONOR STUDENTS ARE ANNOUNCED

MISS CATHERINE REMUS VALEDICTORIAN OF M. H. S. SENIORS

PEARL DE NEEN SECOND

And Will Be Salutatorian—Ten Seniors Average Over 90 For 4 Years

Miss Catherine Remus will be valedictorian and Miss Pearl DeNeen salutatorian of the graduating class at the Maryville High School, this spring. This was announced this morning by Principal L. L. St. Clair. After a careful inspection of the high school records, it was found that the seniors mentioned above were the two highest. Miss Remus took first place with the excellent average of 96:84. Miss DeNeen was a very close second; her average for the four years being 94:58. Joseph Graves was third with an average of 93:94, and Hope Moore secured the fourth place, with an average of 92:81.

Six other seniors have made averages above ninty, for their four years in high school. They are; Dorothy England, Alyce Allen, Sarah Moore, Garland Montgomery, Alice Cary, and Ned Colbert. Mary Coe and Roberta Cook had averages that were barely under ninety.

The valedictorian and the salutatorian both made enviable records throughout their high school courses. They made high grades in all of the subjects that they studied. In fact, they both had such good records, that for a while it was not known which would make the highest average.

Both girls are active in their school life. Catherine Remus is vice-president of the senior class. She is also one of the editors-in-chief of the high school annual staff. Pearl DeNeen is also on the annual staff. Both girls are interested in all of the school activities. The senior class, and the school in general, may well be proud of the valedictorian and the salutatorian for this year.

$6,000 CLUB HOUSE WILL BE ERECTED

NEW BUILDING TO SERVE WAR CLUBS HERE

IS SPONSORED BY V. F. W.

Work On New Home To Start Within Next Thirty Days—Campaign Has Begun

A $6000 club house, erected by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Nodaway County, is now a certainty. Work on the new building will start within the next thirty days. A campaign for the necessary funds is already under way.

The local organization of war veterans will purchase the lot, the location of which has not been definitely decided. However, several locations are under consideration at the present time. Co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce, business men and city officials will be asked in obtaining the finances. The County will also be solicited, and all patriotic organizations will aid in the campaign.

The new building will be seventy feet long and thirty-six feet wide. It will be constructed on strictly club house style. It will be finished with Kella stone, and will contain one floor with a full basement. The roof will be bungalow finished.

The club house will contain reading rooms, lounging rooms, and quarters for the various war clubs of the county. The basement wil contain shower baths and there is a possibility that a gymnasium may be added.

Those in charge of the work have been formulating plans for some time but it was not definitely decided to build until a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was held last night. At this meeting, all members of the local organization were heartily in favor of beginning work at once. Several clubs in Maryville and Nodaway County have no adequate meeting place and a building was the only solution, members of the local V. F. W. said today.

The new structure will serve as a community center for all war clubs of the county. Here meetings will be held and recreational facilities will be furnished the men.

Jack Pennington, Charles Wiles, Ray O'Grady, Ed Kendall, D. Simmons and Harold Tebow are members of the committee directly in charge of the work, although every member of the war clubs will aid in the work. A number of local business men have already voiced approval of the plans for the building.

COACH MAYNOR LEAVES COLLEGE

TENDERS RESIGNATION TODAY TO PRESIDENT LAMKIN

EFFECTIVE MAY 18

Maynor Now Considering Two Other Positions—Successor To Be Named Soon

Eugene A. Maynor, director of athletics at the State Teachers College, today resigned that position in a letter to President Uel W. Lamkin of the College. The resignation was accepted and Mr. Maynor's connection with the faculty of the College will be severed at the end of the present quarter which comes on May 18.

The form of the resignation follows

Dear Mr. Lamkin,

Submitted herewith my resignation as Director of Athletics. I leave to your discretion the date of acceptance. However, the sooner my successor is chosen the better it will be for the College.

Permit me to express my appreciation for the many courtesies extended me during the past nine months, and to wish you and the College every success. I am Sir,

Sincerely yours,
E. A. Maynor.

Mr. Maynor's plans for the future are not yet definite. The last of this week he will leave upon the invitation of two schools to consider taking a position similar to the one he has held at the College here in Maryville. However he has not decided for sure where he will be next year but expressed an opinion today that it would be one of these two places.

Concerning Maynor's successor President Lamkin of the College said today, "Mr. Maynor's successor will be chosen just as soon as we can get the right man. We want a man who can do two things. First he must be able to develop physical education in the whole student body and second, he must be able to coach the athletic teams."

Coach Maynor will not accompany the track team to Tarkio for the annual M. I. A. A. meet which will be held on Friday of this week. E. W. Glenn, head of the department of manual training at the College and former athlete at the University of Illinois, will have charge of the men at Tarkio.

Earl Miller, a member of this year's basketball team, who has been working out with Eldon Steiger and William Mapel, the tennis men at the College, will take them to Tarkio Thursday for the tennis matches.

In the event of a baseball game between the State Teachers College and the Chillicothe Business College later in the week, Mr. Maynor will accompany the baseball men on the trip to Chillicothe.

Coach Maynor came to the College here last fall from the University of Missouri, where he had been freshman coach. He was at Alabama Polytechnical College prior to that time. In football, Coach Maynor developed a better football team than the College has had for several years, and his basketball team, during the past season, won a majority of its games. This spring his time has been divided between baseball and track.

DEATH AND DAMAGE IN WAKE OF FLOOD

THEN FIRE BREAKS OUT IN HOT SPRINGS, ARK.

MAIN STREETS FLOODED

Humans and Autos Swept Away By Raging Waters—Red Cross To Rescue—Army Offers Help

Washington, May 15.—Taking cognizance of the serious situation reported from Hot Springs, Ark., in the fire and flood disaster, Robert C. Davis, acting secretary of war telegraphed to the army hospital at Little Rock and to the general commandant of the Seventh Corp Area at Fort Crook, Nebr., for immediate reports concerning the situation at Hot Springs, with a view of extending army aid, if conditions warrant.

St. Louis, May 15—Two representatives of the national Red Cross Society upon a special relief train of the Missouri Pacific, left here this morning for Hot Springs, Arkansas, to render aid to the victims in the fire and flood disaster there last night. Information received at the local Missouri Pacific office, gave the number of dead as seventeen in the stricken city.

Hot Springs, Ark., May 15—Between fifteen and twenty persons have lost their lives in the worst disaster of fire and water in the history of this city, which struck last night. Death and devastation followed in the wake of the flood and fire, and many business houses were swept away.

The city was left in total darkness. A torrential rain started the disaster and the flood waters swept down Central Avenue, a main street of the city. Shortly after this a fire broke out in the downtown section, sweeping away many business houses in a hurry.

The exact loss of life could not be determined at an early hour this morning. The town was in total darkness before the flood broke loose last night. The property damage is inestimable until a careful survey can be made and at least a day will be necessary to do it.

The Hot Springs National Park famous health and pleasure resort, was divided into three sections by the raging waters. Communication between the different parts of the city was even cut off.

The rains, which started the flood waters, totalled six inches through Sunday night and the following twenty-four hours. Early yesterday morning water began trickling down Central Avenue between two government reservations, but the residents felt no alarm since a similar outbreak had recently only damaged goods in the basements of the stores.

It was not long, however, until the water rushed in with increased rapidity. In the space of few minutes a gigantic wall of water was surging down the principal street of the city, crashing in windows, and sweeping away autos and even human beings with its terrific force. Buildings were rent apart as if they were a child's building blocks.

Fire broke out in the old Gaines building. The flood waters, mounting higher made it impossible to fight the blaze.

The Grand Rapids Cafe and the American Express buildings were among the first to be laid waste. The Marquette Hotel, alone valued at $250,000, was destroyed by the flames

The speed, at which the flood waters rushed in, was responsible for the heavy loss of life and property. Several witnesses reported that they saw human bodies bobbing up and down in the current in its raging course. Many heroic rescues of women and children caught in the path of the waters on the street, were made.

It is estimated that more than a hundred automobiles were lost. Brave men swam out into the big pond and rescued frantic women and children.

Memphis, May 15.—All efforts to communicate by land with Hot Springs, Arkansas, following the disaster of flood and fire there, were of no avail, when autos sent there from this city today, were compelled to turn back. All bridges in the enighborhood of Hot Springs were either down or impassable, they reported. An effort will be made from Little Rock to establish communication with the flooded city by airplane. An effort will also be made to establish wireless communication.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Clarence Sharp, by her first marriage. Mr. Cook is a brother of J. F. Cook of Maryville.

BANDITS DEADLOCK, PRISONERS HELD

CHINESE SITUATION TAKES TURN FOR THE WORSE

POWERS SEND A NOTE

Insist Upon Better Protection of Foreigners—Foreign Ministers Meeting Today At Peking

Peking, May 15—A hurried conference of the leading foreign ministers was called at this city today to view the new situation caused by the deadlock of negotiations for the release of the foreigners held by the Chinese bandits.

The rising tide of anti-foreign feeling is feared. The British consulate at Linchen telegraphed that a quarrel among the thirty bandit leaders was the cause of the deadlock. The government apparently desires to shift the responsibility for negotiations upon the diplomatic corps of the five foreign consulates present at Linchen.

Washington, May 15. — Reinforcements of the police guarding the principal railroads of China to prevent a recurrence of the recent bandit holdup was insisted upon in a note to the Chinese foreign minister at Peking, by the five leading powers, it was announced at the state department today. Better policing of the Tien Ptsin-Pukow, and Peking-Handow railroads was especially insisted upon together with establishment of a foreign commission to see that adequate protection was provided foreigners.

Peking, May 15—Despite the promise of diplomats that the release of foreign captives, including many Americans, held by Shantung bandits, might be expected hourly, it appeared today that there was some delay. Latest advices from Linchen said that the prisoners were still in the hands of the brigands.

General Tso-Kun of the Chinese troops of the Shantung province, who is charged with safety of foreigners within the province, seemed indifferent as to the welfare of the captives. Two days after the hold-up, he sent a report to the Peking government, telling of "the unfortunate incident."

Reports from Linchen say that the bandit Chieftains refuse to conclude any agreement until the government soldiers, who have been besieging them from nearby mountains, have been withdrawn. The bandit leaders demand that all their men be reinstated in the regular army.

About fifteen foreigners are still being held by the bandits including two women.

Opening of Golf Course Postponed

The date of the opening will be announced when the weather settles. A picnic dinner and various games have been planned for the occasion.

20 DEAD, 200 HURT IN TEXAS TORNADO

SHOWN BY LATEST CHECK-UP AT COLORADO, TEXAS.

SITUATION IS IN HAND

According to Word Sent to Red Cross —Babe Found Unhurt in a Field.

Washington, May 15—The casualties of the Colorado, Texas tornado were placed at twenty dead and 200 injured in a telegram received at Red Cross headquarters here. A hundred families are homeless, the Texas Red Cross chapter said.

The message further stated that the situation was now well in hand and that no outside aid would be asked for. Churches and homes, spared by the storm, are being used as a haven for the homeless.

Colorado, Texas, May 15.—The number of known dead in the tornado, which devastated a section of the country a mile wide and fifteen miles long in Mitchell County early Monday morning, had mounted to seventeen today. Over a hundred residents are known to have been injured.

Local hospitals are crowded with victims and rescue parties from nearby towns have been rushed to the scene of the disaster to render aid. Most of the victims were asleep when the storm struck and never knew any danger.

A small, unidentified babe is being cared for by a family here, while search is being made for its parents. The little tot was found unhurt, in the middle of a field after the storm.

Tents, blankets and food have been rushed here from other cities to make the three hundred or more homeless people as comfortable as possible in temporary quarters.

The report of a fire here, threatening the city, that reached the outside yesterday, was without foundation. There has been no serious fires here.

It will probably be several days before a complete check of the dead and injured can be made, owing to the confusion that attends all such disasters.

Oil Men Seek to Quash Indictments

Ft. Worth, Tex., May 15—An avalanche of notions seeking to quash the indictments against oil promoters here, made last month, was before the Federal Court today to be acted upon by Judge F. C. Bledsoe of Los Angeles. Judge Bledsoe will be assisted by United State Judge Jacks of Shreveport, who will be here this afternoon.

The principal attack of the oil magnates was against the grand jury and the assistant-attorney-general from Washington. In the motions of the various promoters is included that of Dr. Frederick Cook.

ROMANTIC ADVENTURES.

The love for romantic adventure has been one of the most compelling of human instincts. It was this spirit that sent the great navigator exploring the unknown seas in the sixteenth century, and led to the settlement of the American continent. It induced the American pioneers to leave the comfortable homes they had established in the eastern towns, and spread all over this western country and build up a great civilization on the former wild spaces.

Even in the comparative humdrum life of today, some people still find such adventures. The newspapers have recently told of a company of men who had sailed from San Francisco, on an expedition, the purpose of which is to take motion pictures of the cannibal tribes of the South Sea Islands.

An enterprise like that will add something to human knowledge. One is glad that there are still some men left who have physical courage and spirit of adventure to carry out a plan worthy of the characters of Dumas's or Stevenson's novels.

Youth still longs for these adventures as it reads its Indian stores and exploits in savage countries. The field for such things is much narrowed in a highly civilized country, and the great majority have to abandon such dreams at an early age. But millions of young men found plenty of adventure during the war. The pursuit of criminals and police work still give similar opportunity to some extent. Many scientists and physicians take chances for human benefit that have elements of romance.

Even the business world is not devoid of this sentiment. The young man who takes up some tremendiously difficult proposition and works it out into a fine success, also has flared and striven like the adventurers of old.

PLAYGROUND CUTTING DOWN DELINQUENCY

Under the influence of municipal playgrounds, child crime and delinquency are being reduced in many cities, according to the returns from a national questionnaire, the Playground and Recreation Association of America announces. Inquiries were sent to over 2,400 cities in the United States and Canada. Replies were received from 1,053. Many which failed to respond are known to be carrying on public recreation in some form.

In St. Louis, a decrease of 75 per cent in the number of juvenile court cases was reported in a single district after the establishment of a playground. According to the manager of the Edison Light Company of Duluth, breakages of street electric lights on Hallowe'en dropped 37 per cent as compared with the year before because of the municipal Hallowe'en program. In St. Paul playground directors saved 75 boys from going to the reformatory and from repeating their offenses. The decrease in delinquency reported in Yakima, Washington, was 50 per cent.

As a result of a Passaic, New Jersey, recreation hall where 68 basketball teams have their games, the judge of the juvenile court is seriously considering closing shop. The boys are so busy at play they have no time to get into trouble.

The national inquiry shows that 505 cities maintained 4,601 play centors in 1922. The total number of workers employed was 10,867. Of these 2,026 were employed throughout the year, an increase of 478 or 30 per cent over the year-round workers i n1921. Chicago spent over $1,500,000 for municipal recreation last year, the report shows. New York appropriated over 489,000; Philadelphia, more than $811,000.

The Association reports that 14,000 requests for help were answered by correspondence and consultation at its New York headquarters. The Recreation Congress at Atlanta City last October was attended by 567 delegates from 207 cities in the United States and from 2 foreign countries. Ten state campaigns for compulsory physical education in the schools were conducted and 168 cities were served by field secretaries.

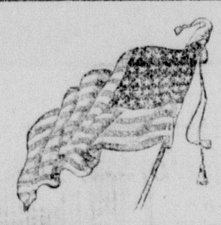
What of America?



Shall This Government Live or Die?

The fabric of American empire ought to rest on the solid basis of the consent of the people. The streams of national power ought to flow immediately from that pure, original fountain of all legitimate authority.—Alexander Hamilton, The Federalist, No. XXII.

XXXIII.

The Birth of the Party System.

With the beginning of the government under the Constitution there came gradually into existence the two great political parties, which, under various names, have continued down to the present time. The Constitution being an accomplished fact, everybody, of course, was for it; but not everybody thought alike as to just what it meant or as to how it should be interpreted and applied. It was on these points that the parties divided and began that political contest which must continue as long as men do not think alike on theories of government.

These parties may be best described as the broad constructionists and the strict constructionists.

The broad constructionists believed that the powers of the federal government were very extensive; that the constitution was a very flexible instrument that might be stretched to any length that the public welfare seemed to require. The other view was that the powers of the government were limited to those expressly delegated by the Constitution; that these powers were delegated by the states and that all powers not so expressly delegated were reserved to the states.

Tihs was a controversy bound to arise under a dual system of government. If the states were sovereign, as they claimed to be, and the United States was also sovereign, as it must be if it was to stand, where was the dividing line between their powers?

"The government under the old confederation undoubtedly had been a government of the states—the articles declared it to be such. The preamble to the Constitution as reported to the Philadelphia convention by the committee of detail began, "We, the people of the states," and named them. As finally reported by the committee on style and as adopted, the preamble began, "We, the people of the United States."

This declaration roused much opposition in the states when the Constitution came up for ratification. Patrick Henry was one of those who attacked it. The old government could act only on the states; the new one, it was perceived, would act directly on individuals. The question whether an individual was a citizen of his state or of the United States was at the bottom of the long controversy that raged over states' rights, and was finally determined by the fourteenth amendment: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside."

But the arguments for the federal were not accepted at first. The states were jealous of their powers and continued to assert them, and but for the judicial power established in the Constitution it is probable the conflict between the state and federal power would have quickly brought about disunion. But the Constitution provided an authority to decide these questions. The supreme court has been described as the noblest work of the founding fathers, and by its authority the compromises of the Constitution have been so interpreted as to render the whole enduring. The Constitution was made workable by judicial interpretation.

The supreme court's labors in this field have been monumental. It has made innumberable decisions of every clause in the Constitution. On the preamble itself, which contains only fifty-two words, thirty important cases involving the most fundamental questions of government have been founded.

The judicial powers of the supreme court are the most extensive ever conferred upon or acquired by a tribunal. It is the only court in the world that can set aside an act of a national legislature.

"What parliament doth," said Blackstone, "no power on earth can undo."

But the supreme court of the United States not only has a veto on acts of congress, but hears and settles causes between states, and between states and the United States. Of this high jurisdiction Toqueville has said:

"In the nations of Europe the courts of justice are only called upon to try the controversies of private individuals, but the supreme court of the United States summons sovereign powers to its bar."

In cases affecting the ambassadors of foreign powers, and those to which a state is a party, the supreme court has original jurisdiction; but in all others it acts only on appeal. Its appellate jurisdiction extends to all cases arising under the Constitution, the laws of the United States and treaties; to causes to which the United States is a party; to those between citizens of different states, and between states or citizens and foreign states. It passes, on appeal, on any law, state or national, which may be challenged as not being in conformity with the Constitution or with the laws of the United States, and from its judgment there is no appeal.

Only one original power of the supreme court has been withdrawn from it. The judicial power at first extended to cases between a state and citizens of another state. This created alarm, but the defenders of the Constitution in the battle for ratification declared a state could not be sued by a citizen of another state. Hamilton in No. 81 of the Federalist, said: "It is inherent in the nature of sovereignty, not to be amendable to the suit of an individual without its consent." But when in 1793 a citizen of South Carolina sued the state of Georgia (Chisholm vs Georgia) the supreme court took jurisdiction. This case led to the eleventh amendment to the Constitution, which declares the judicial power shall not extend to such suits. The United States, however, has established a court of claims in which it consents to be sued.

We shall see how the operation of this judicial power tended to consolidate the government and infuse the spirit of nationality into the union.

Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method:—Measure off two tablespoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Foods with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go the limit; get relief!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

M. H. S. Athletes Sponsor Race Film

Picture At The Empire Tomorrow and Thursday By High School Athletic Association

One of the greatest racing films ever made will be shown at the Empire Theatre Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The picture is being shown under the auspices of the Maryville High School Athletic Association and the proceeds will go to that organization.

It is called "When Romance Rides" and is a Benjamin B. Hampton production, released by Goldwyn, founded upon Zane Grey's most widely read novel, "Wildfire." Thrill follows thrill in this excellently acted photoplay which boasts a cast including Claire Adams, Carl Gantvoort, Jean Hersholt, Charles Arling, Harry L. Van Meter, Frank Hayes, Tod Sloan, the famous jockey, Babe London, Mary Jane Irving and two of the most wonderful horses which have ever appeared on the screen.

"When Romance Rides" may be summed up as the most colorful and swift-moving of Zane Grey pictures (all founded upon Zane Grey novels and the Zane Grey novels are the most widely read of any author's in the country). The horse race at the rodeo when Claire Adams rides Wildfire in the free for all race to beat the villain at his own game, is almost as good and as thrilling as the real thing.

But the race fades in power before the big climax in which the kidnapped Lucy is tied to the back of a horse by a half-witted man and would have been killed in a plunge over the precipice had not Carl Gantvoort rescued her in the nick of time.

That Delco-Light Plant

For May, 1923

That's Now---This Month!

And the very unusual proposition the factory is extending to us for this month only, should be interesting and very attractive to all who contemplate buying a Delco-Light Plant in the near future and the situation is this:

If we procure orders for thirty plants THIS MONTH to be shipped in the car direct from the factory, there will be a saving of thirty dollars on each order taken, besides we give you free, absolutely, the regular Delco-Light fixture set, consisting of six high-grade fixtures; and these are cold facts, and are entirely free from propaganda, not saving you forty dollars in one instance and taking advantage in another and as stated, this is a very unusual proposition and very unlikely to be made soon again. If you buy NOW your saving will be from forty to sixty dollars on each plant, and if that be true, is not that worth while?

Why not become interested when our salesmen call on you, and give an order, and I am sure it will carry with it no regrets on your part.

GIVE US YOUR ORDER NOW.

It is absolutely necessary that you act at once if you are to get in on the carload proposition.

Samuel O. Dunn, Former Resident, Noted Authority On Transportation

Samuel O. Dunn, editor of Railway Age, and a widely known authority upon transportation, who was a resident of Maryville and Nodaway County for years, was the subject of an interesting story published recently in The New York Times. Mr. Dunn will be well remembered in this county for his newspaper work, first at Burlington Junction, then at Quitman, where he published the Quitman Record, and later associate editor of the Maryville Tribune. The following is the story from the New York paper:

In the days when the west was still the wild west, and when roving bands of Indians and bandits roamed over the plains, a prairie schooner followed a beaten trail into the southwest.

It took four months for the big lumbering vehicle to cover the 700 miles between Bloomfield, Ia., and Pratt, Kans., and this was partly because there was a little baby in the wagon. Such was the first trip of Samuel O. Dunn, destined to become an authority on transportation, editor of half a dozen magazines, author, lecturer and confidant of railway executives.

A few years later the same prairie schooner was repaired and the Dunn family made the round trip from Pratt to Bloomfield, which gave Samuel 2,100 miles of such locomotion before he ever boarded a railroad train. He was twenty-seven when he first saw the inside of a sleeping car. Now he travels 50,000 miles a year and edits his magazines by wire from Pullman drawing rooms and hotels all over the country.

Pratt was one of the bad towns of the southwest in those days, and it was the scene of a bitter county-seat war in which there were many killings. Dunn's father, Samuel W. Dunn, eventually became sheriff, and he was killed in the war to decide what town would have the right to build the Seward County courthouse. In many ways Pratt was trying to take from Dodge City the unenviable distinction of being the premier bad spot of Kansas.

There was one paper in the town at the time—the Southwest Chronicle, edited by a woman. It was a weekly periodical and Samuel O. Dunn went to work there when he was twelve years old as a printer's devil. He did all the odd chores of a country printshop—washed rules, set type by hand and redistributed it, ran the job press swept out the office, etc.

A $10 a Month Janitor.

Although he had no money, it was his ambition to finish high school. He was forced to quit for awhile and he worked ten hours a day at the Chronicle office and then studied at night, with the result that his eyesight became affected and he almost lost it. When Dunn did go back to high school he worked as janitor of the school building and was paid $10 a month and by diligent application to his studies he was graduated with his class despite an absence of a year and a half.

That was all of the schooling he obtained, although he subsequently was admitted to the bar of the state of Illinois, holds the honorary degree of M. A. at Tufts College and has lectured to universities all over the country. He moved to Burlington Junction, Mo., where he was reporter, editor, advertising manager and printer of a little paper, which he ran under contract to receive 25 per cent of the net receipts. He discovered in a few months that there were no net receipts.

A little later Dunn leased the Quitman, Mo., Record for $25 a month, and then he was offered a job as associate editor of the Maryville, Mo., Tribune, with a salary of $30 a month and his room. Things were going along very nicely with him by this time. But his health broke down again and it took him ten years really to recuperate. But it taught him a lesson and that was that there must be a certain amount of play to each day's work.

After Dunn had recovered sufficiently to go back to work, he outlined a course of study which he followed for seven years, working three hours a day. He wanted a substitute for the college education that he was not able to obtain. He divided this unique education into five general classifications: History, economics, and political science, philosophy, literature, and law.

Reporter on K. C. Journal.

Finding that his scope was limited in Maryville, Dunn went to Kansas City and was a first reporter and then an editorial writer on the Journal. In 1904 he became an editorial writer for the Chicago Tribune, and the next year he had the following conversation with Joseph Patterson, one of the editors of the paper:

"Do you know anything about railroads?" the editor asked.

"Not a thing," replied the young newspaper man.

"Learn all you can about them," was the advice of Dunn's superior. "You should specialize on something and I think you'll find it profitable, I want some one about the shop who understands the transportation situation thoroughly."

And thus it came about that Samuel O. Dunn began to take an active interest in transportation. He bought all the books he could lay his hands on and studied them minutely. He read Interstate Commerce Commission reports, talked to railroad officers, followed rate hearings and legislation affecting the carriers. One day he was in the office of the Railway Age-Gazette (now the Railway Age) and as he was leaving he said to the editor:

"If you ever need a good man call on me."

Not long afterward the editor did need a good man, and he recalled Dunn's thoughtless remark. That was in 1907, and Dunn was offered an editorial position with the paper, and he accepted. Four years later—at the same time he was taking his law examinations—he became editor of the magazine.

Samuel O. Dunn is the author of three authoritative books. They are "The American Transportation Question," published in 1912; "Government Ownership of Railways," 1913, and "The Regulation of Railways," 1918.

He is editor-in-chief of all the publications of the Simmons-Boardman Publishing Company. They are Railway Age, Railway Mechanical Engineer, Railway Engineering and Maintenance, Railway Signal Engineer, Railway Electrical Engineer, Marine Engineering and the Boilermaker. There are thirty editors associated with these magazines.

Harvard Uses His Books.

A resume of the other accomplishments of the former printer's devil and small town editor would take up considerable space in any paper. Here are a few of them: Two of his books are used as textbooks at Harvard; he has lectured at Northwestern University, the Universities of Indiana, California and Wisconsin, and other institutions of higher learning; he formerly was president of the Associated Business Papers, a position customarily held by publishers rather than editors; he was a delegate of the American Railway Association to the International Railway Congress at Rome a few years ago and read a paper on "Relationship of Railway Rates to Cost of Transportation;" he believes he has read more radical and socialistic literature than most persons of communistic faith, and he has done important special work for the Western Presidents' Association, the Association of Railway Executives and for individual heads of various railroads.

Barackman Is Victor Over Johnnie Bass

Body Scissors With Arm Lock and Head Scissors Were Winning Holds

Mervin Barackman of Sheridan obtained two straight falls over Johnnie Bass, the local mat artist, in their match staged last night in the College gymnasium. A body scissors and arm-lock caused the first fall in 21 minutes, and 7 seconds. A head scissors obtained by Barackman 6 minutes and 25 seconds after the beginning of the second tussle, caused the local wrestler to wave his hand in acknowledging defeat.

The match was opened by a series of arm locks obtained by Barackman, but each time Bass succeeded in breaking away. At one time, Bass obtained a toe-hold on his opponent but the Sheridan lad was successful in extricating himself from the perilous situation. This was about the only time that Bass had an advantage throughout the contest. Soon the Sheridan wrestler tried for a body scissors but Bass quickly escaped him. Then, with a combination hold of a body scissors and arm-lock, E. A. Maynor, referee of the match, patted the shoulders of Barackman, and the crowd reared its approval.

At the beginning of the second encounter, Bass showed considerable speed, but at no time was he able to get behind his opponent. Barackman had the advantage and soon clamped on the head scissors and Bass waved his hand in surrender.

More than 300 persons attended the match. It was the largest crowd of the season, and the total admissions totaled more than $200.

The local American Legion is making arrangements for a match to be held on May 28. Vernon Davis of Paola, Kan., who threw Dick Wholf here about a month ago, is being considered for a match with Barackman. Billy Wolfe, present middleweight champion of Missouri, is another possibility to work against the Sheridan man.

Pierce Mentioned for G. O. P. Committeeman

W. C. Pierce of Maryville is being mentioned in Republican circles of Missouri as a possible candidate for national committeeman to succeed Jacob L. Babler of St. Louis. Representative Charles Faust of St. Joseph and Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican state chairman, are also being mentioned for the office.

The Jefferson City correspondent of The Kansas City Star, had the following in last night's paper:

"A hostile Missouri delegation in the next Republican national convention may confront the Harding administration if the world court issue is carried into next year's campaign.

"Among the Republican politicians, particularly those affiliated with the Hyde administration, there is an increasing hostility to the new international program. In the background is a resentment caused by the persistent refusal of the national administration to recognize either the governor's friends or the dominant state organization in the distribution of federal patronage.

"The fight has begun already to obtain control of the Republican state convention and defeat Jacob L. Babler of St. Louis, national committeeman. Reports are that the Babler-Morse faction, through whom a large part of Missouri's patronage has been distributed, is grooming William Sacks, the light wine and beer candidate for United States senator in the 1922 primary, for Babler's successor.

"Several Republicans have been mentioned as possible anti-Babler candidates for national committeeman. Among them are W. C. Pierce of Maryville, Representative Charles Faust of St. Joseph, and Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican state chairman.

"In the fight to eliminate the Babler of federal crowd, the Republicans will be reminded of the Lowden slush fund scandal of 1920. The new party leaders then were too poorly organized to prevent Babler's re-election to the national committee. But it is different now with a hostile state administration in control, and an apparent indifference of the rank and file to the Harding leadership.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. BIEBER, 3939 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 827 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

Market News

Kansas City, May 15.—At the outset killers placed weak bids on cattle, but demand soon developed considerable urgency and the market strengthened with some sales showing above last week's best time. Quality of the offerings was only fair. The best steers here brought $10 and strictly prime grades would have brought $10.25 or better. Hogs were 10 to 15 cents higher, with demand active. Fat lambs were 25 to 40 cents higher, clipped grades at $14, and Arizona springs at $15.35 were the tops for the season. Clipped sheep were 15 lower.

Today's receipts: Receipts today were 12,000 cattle, 14,000 hogs and 7,000 sheep, compared with 10,000 cattle, 28,000 hogs and 3,000 sheep a week ago and 10,200 cattle, 15,60 hogs and 8,700 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle: It was killer's intention to be bearish i nthe cattle market this morning, owing to the liberal receipts of cattle in Chicago, but after the first rounds a broad general demand was in evidence, and most cattle sold at strong prices, some 10 to 15 cents higher. Trade rounded into large proportions and was active before 10 o'clock, and there was a close final clearance. The best steers here sold at $9.50 to $10. None were strictly prime. Other fed steers of the plainer classes sold at $8.25 up to $9.25. A few loads of Colorado steers brought $9.25 to $9.90. Cows and heifers were i nactive demand at strong prices. The best heifers here brought $9.00, mixed yearlings were scarce. Veal calves were strong.

Stockers and Feeders: After closing last week slightly lower, prices for stockers and feeders strengthened again, and today were in about the same position as a year ago. Good to choice classes were scarce.

Hogs: Hog prices advanced 10 to 15 cents, and at the higher prices there was an early clearance. Today's prices were 25 to 30 cents above the low point last week, and the indicated movement for the rest of this week is light. The top price was $7.65, and bulk of sales $7.45 to $7.60. Packing sows sold at $6.25 to $6.40, and pigs at $6.75 to $7.00. Demand for stock hogs shows increasing urgency.

Sheep and Lambs: Arizona spring lambs sold at $15.35 and clipped lambs up to $14 or 25 to 40 cents higher than last week's close. No wooled lambs were offered. Texas clipped wethers sold at $7.50 to $8.00 and Arizona clipped ewes at $6 to $6.50, or 15 cents lower. The decline in sheep and the advance in lambs has brought a widespread in prices between sheep and lambs.

Horses and Mules: Trade in horses and mules, though active, was restricted to light volume owing to small receipts. Prices continued steady.

The man who can make and keep friends is indeed richly blessed.

ENGLISH PROJECT BY 7TH B PUPILS

WILL COMPETE IN SUPERINTENDENT ZIEGLER'S CONTEST

A POEM IS STUDIED

Nature of Project Permits a Variety of Subjects to Be Studied.

The seventh B grade at the Washington school, under the supervision of Mrs. O. L. Curl, has completed an English project this semester. Each class in the grade school must do at least one project a semester. A variety of studies are therefore represented in the different projects. Some projects are strong in history, others in geography, and so forth. However, few of the projects deal so much with the study of English, as the seventh B project.

The pupils of this grade made an exhaustive study of Longfellow's poem, "The Courtship of Miles Standish." The object of such an extended study of one literary work, was to teach the appreciation of the famous poem to the children, and by this poem, to learn the value of friendship, loyalty, unselfishness, and self-sacrifice. In this way, the project was of great value to the pupils.

Each part of the poem was taken up separately and studied. The divisions of the poem that were taken up were; Miles Standish, Love and Friendship, the Lover's Errand, John Alden, the sailing of the Mayflower, Priscilla, the march of Miles Standish, the Spinning Wheel, the Wedding Day. In the study of each of these divisions, the pupils had discussions in class about the characters, the action, the purpose and other things in the poem. At the same time they were getting training in English and reading.

The poem was studied as a whole, as well as being taken up by divisions. In the study of the whole poem the pupils took up other subjects at the same time. They studied the historical background of the poem. They studied the life of Longfellow, and read several of his shorter poems. They then studied the poem for their project.

The study of this poem included such things as discussions, readings, and compositions. The work on this project included other school studies. These were grammar, art, history, writing and spelling.

The application of this project was different from that of the other projects in the school. Each pupil in the class wrote a dramatization of the poem. The pupils also made portfolio covers in which to keep their dramatizations. These covers were made in connection with the art work.

After all of the dramatizations were written, they were collected and read. The best lines from each pupil's work were selected. In this way a very good play was obtained. The pupils then took the different parts for the play. They practiced the play, until they had it perfected, and then presented it at an assembly of the grade children. They also collected the costumes and properties for the play. In this way they were their own writers, actors, producers and stage-hands.

The pupils, being acquainted with their subject, were able to produce a much better drama than if they had merely taken a prepared play. They also had the subject better impressed in their minds, by the presentation of the play. By these methods, the project had some real educational value, and the lessons taught by the poem, as well a sthe poem itself will not easily be forgotten.

The members of the class are as follows: Bely Anderson, Petie Dietz, Frances England, Vilas Glover, John Hall, Edward Hudson, Vilas Hull, Harold Hunt, Frank Nichols, Charles Phipps, Leslie Reynolds, Edward Strough, Homer Warner, Mabel Aley, Pauline Bliss, Mildred Bratcher, Helen Davis, Marian Glen, Isabelle Hamlin, Winifred Helpley, LaDean Holaday, Stella Irby, Minietta Knox, Ethel Murry, Crystal Reynolds, Savena Swinford, Katheryn Rathbun, Ruth Thompson, Winifred Todd, Bertha Treese, Opal Fern Wallace, Emma Mae Yeo, Margaret Baker.

LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

Jefferson City, May 15. — State Treasurer L. D. Thompson today announced that he would receive bids May 21 from depositories for the $12,000,000 surplus in the state treasury. The surplus money is now on deposit in Kansas City and at St. Louis banks which are paying three per cent interest. The deposits were made necessary because of the state depositories having failed to take their full quotation state moneys under the interest rate of 5.13 per cent, which was bid in 1921.
